ENGL 1030-13: Composition and Rhetoric

Instructor: Samuel Adewumi

Student hours: by Appointment

Email: sadewum@clemson.edu

Modality: In-person

Fall 2024 Academic Calendar

Class days/time: M/W/F - 11:15 am - 12:05 am

Location: Daniel 212

Course Description

ENGL 1030 uses a rhetorical approach to help students improve critical reading and writing skills and craft effective arguments. Rhetoric is the study of persuasion, and we'll spend time analyzing arguments to determine why audiences might be persuaded by them. You will also learn how to research, compose, and revise ethical and effective arguments to address specific audiences. While this is a writing class, you can expect to be studying and creating arguments that take many forms: written, oral/aural, visual, and material.

Our first unit begins with an introduction to rhetoric, deploying primary source research to analyze how public spaces and structures make arguments. Our second unit will then move into reading and writing about public debates and discussions, situating secondary sources on a particular topic in relation to one another to "map" a public conversation of interest to you. Finally, you will use the rhetorical and research skills you have gained over the course of the semester to compose your own argument about the topic or debate you have been studying. Throughout the course, we will take a process-based approach to writing, and each paper or project you complete will have multiple stages of work: topic proposals, drafts, and so on.

There are no prerequisites for ENGL 1030. This course fulfills Clemson's General Education Learning Outcome in Communication: Students will demonstrate competence in communication through organization of a central message with supporting materials in the chosen medium.

Learning Goals and Assessment

Course schedule

Objective	Assignments
1) Situate writing, arguments, and artifacts within specific rhetorical contexts.	Landmark Analysis; Responses; Discussion

2) Engage fairly and ethically with the ideas and perspectives of others.	Mapping the Conversation; Responses; Discussion
3) Articulate a position supported by research.	Position Statement and Reflection; Responses
4) Transfer writing knowledge to other modalities and situations beyond ENGL 1030.	Position Statement and Reflection; Responses; Discussion

Required Materials

- You do not need to purchase a textbook for this course. You will have regular readings in this open-access, online textbook: Try This: Research Methods for Writers.
- Additional readings and materials provided by the instructor via Canvas
- Microsoft Word

Grading System and Policies

Course grades will be calculated as follows: A=90-100%; B=80-90%; C=70-80%; D=60-70%; F=0-59%. A student earning within half a percentage point of the next letter grade will be rounded up (89.5%=A).

Landmark Analysis	15%
Mapping the Conversation	20%
Position Statement and Reflection	25%
Presentation	5%
Final project	15%
Reflection	5%
Minor Assignments (responses, topic proposals, drafts)	25%
Participation (see description below)	15%

Major and Minor Assignments

Our primary focus in this course is on writing, and you'll have formal and/or informal writing due every week this semester. Your major projects include a rhetorical analysis of a specific space or landmark (Unit 1: Landmark Analysis); a project mapping a conversation around a public issue or controversy (Unit 2: Mapping the Conversation); and a multimedia composition where you take a stance on the topic of that issue or controversy (Unit 3: Position Statement and Reflection).

Each major project will involve several stages of prewriting and process work including topic proposals, drafts, outlines, visualizations, and more. In addition, you'll write regular responses to our readings where you practice the skills we're building towards those larger assignments and reflections on your progress through the course and as a writer and thinker.

Participation

Participation in this class encompasses the following: class discussion, draft workshops and free writings, peer reviews, in-class work (writing, quizzes, etc.), and conferences.

All assigned readings in this course relate directly to the course content for each unit and will help you complete your major assignments. For this reason, students are expected to come to class ready to discuss the reading, in detail. Most importantly, students will remember that participation is evaluated in terms of a student's contribution to the culture of learning in this class. In other words, participation is not merely evaluated in terms of how often a student speaks but also how they speak and incorporate the responses of others into their own thinking.

Students are expected to meet with me at least twice over the course of the semester. I encourage you to schedule a time to meet with me at any point to discuss tips for general reading/note-taking strategies, class discussion and participation, minor assignments, or any of the major assignments. I will not review drafts sent over email but am always happy to look something over in a conference.

Course Policies

Attendance

You've already chosen to be here, so be here—in body and mind. Students who are mentally disengaged from class (text messaging, napping, completing other class work, etc) may be counted absent. You may submit a Notification of Absence in Canvas to request an excused absence. You are allowed 3 unexcused absences without any impact to your grade. If you miss more than ¼ of our class time (10 or more class periods) for any reason, you will automatically fail the course.

Note on mandatory attendance for federal student aid: Any enrolled student who has not attended class by the last day to drop the class (in Fall 2024: September 4) will be deemed to have "not participated" by federal standards, which may have repercussions for financial aid eligibility.

Tardiness

Be on time. If you arrive after class begins, you will be marked late. If you arrive more than fifteen minutes late, you will be marked absent. Three late arrivals will count as one absence. If I am more than fifteen minutes late, students may consider the class cancelled.

Extensions and Late Work

I am happy to consider extension requests submitted in writing prior to a deadline. The work of this course builds from one assignment to the next, and so assignments need to be complete in the sequence they are assigned and cannot be submitted late or all at once. For minor assignments, no late submissions are accepted except in cases where a student has an excused absence or an extension has been granted in advance. Major projects submitted after the deadline (without an extension or excused absence) will lose one letter grade per calendar day. Students who are unable to submit an assignment on time due to a University approved excused absence should contact me as soon as possible to make alternative arrangements for completing missed work.

Technology and Digital Literacy Requirements

This course will make use of Canvas for assignments and grading. Required digital literacy skills include emailing, downloading/uploading files, creating audio/video files and navigating Canvas. You must also have knowledge of how to access Zoom, LockDown Browser, Kaltura, and Microsoft Office. You can find CCIT resources for accessing software and applications here.

Please check Canvas regularly for any changes to the syllabus, including if I need to cancel a class for illness or emergency. If Clemson University cancels classes, assignments due that day should be submitted on Canvas. All other changes to our schedule moving forward will be announced via Canvas within 24 hours.

Because AI-informed text and image generators use the intellectual property of authors and artists without compensation, you may not use these tools to complete your work unless I give explicit permission for an individual AI service for a specific assignment. If you wish to use AI for brainstorming, drafting or editing, please consult with me first. Be aware that text edited with Grammarly is often flagged by AI checkers. If you wish to use Grammarly, please use it as a guide rather than copying and pasting its recommended edits directly into your writing. Failure to abide by these policies will be considered and treated as plagiarism by Clemson University (see the University's Academic Integrity policy below).

AI Policy

Because AI-informed text and image generators use the intellectual property of authors and artists without compensation, you may not use these tools to complete your work unless I give explicit permission for an individual AI service for a specific assignment. If you wish to use AI for brainstorming, drafting or editing, please consult with me first. Be aware that text edited with Grammarly is often flagged by AI checkers. If you wish to use Grammarly, please use it as a guide rather than copying and pasting its recommended edits directly into your writing. Failure to abide by these policies will be considered and treated as plagiarism by Clemson University (see the University's Academic Integrity policy below).

Campus Policies and Resources

Writing Lab (Cooper Library, 3rd floor)

The Clemson Writing Lab is a free writing support service available to the entire student body, regardless of major or academic standing. The Writing Lab provides students the opportunity to discuss questions or problems related to writing—from generating a topic and thesis to organizing a draft and integrating appropriate citations. You should feel free to utilize the Writing Lab to receive additional support or feedback on any course assignments or projects. You can make an appointment with a consultant by visiting the Writing Lab's website: www.clemson.edu/writing-lab.

Accessibility

Clemson University values the diversity of our student body as a strength and a critical component of our dynamic community. Students with disabilities or temporary injuries/conditions may require accommodations due to barriers in the structure of facilities, Students who experience a barrier to full access to this class should let the instructor know and are encouraged to request accommodations through SAS (Student Accessibility Services) as soon as possible. To request accommodations through SAS, please see this link: www.clemson.edu/academics/student-accessibility-services/how-to-register/requesting-accommodations. You can also reach out to SAS with questions by calling 864-656-6848, email

CUSAS@clemson.edu or visiting SAS at the ASC Suite 239. Contact the office for the most updated drop-in schedule if you would prefer not to schedule an appointment.

Academic Integrity

As members of the Clemson University community, we have inherited Thomas Green Clemson's vision of this institution as a "high seminary of learning." Fundamental to this vision is a mutual commitment to truthfulness, honor, and responsibility, without which we cannot earn the trust and respect of others. Furthermore, we recognize that academic dishonesty detracts from the value of a Clemson degree. Therefore, we shall not tolerate lying, cheating, or stealing in any form.

All infractions of academic dishonesty by undergraduates must be reported to Undergraduate Learning for resolution through that office. In cases of plagiarism instructors may use the Plagiarism Resolution Form.

Plagiarism includes the intentional or unintentional copying of language, structure, or ideas of another and attributing the work to one's own efforts. Graded works generated by artificial intelligence or ghostwritten (either paid or free) are expressly forbidden. See the Undergraduate Academic Integrity Policy website for additional information and the current catalog ("Academic Regulations" section) for the policy. Send questions to UGSintegrity@clemson.edu.

Title IX Statement Regarding Non-Discrimination

Clemson University aspires to create a diverse community that welcomes people of different races, cultures, ages, genders, sexual orientation, religions, socioeconomic levels, political perspectives, abilities, opinions, values and experiences.

Clemson University is committed to a policy of equal opportunity for all persons and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender, pregnancy or related conditions (including pregnancy, childbirth, termination of pregnancy, lactation, recovery from the foregoing, or medical conditions related to the foregoing), national origin, age, disability, veteran's status, genetic information or protected activity in employment, educational programs and activities, admissions and financial aid. This includes a prohibition against sex discrimination (including sex-based harassment and sexual violence) as mandated by Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972. This Title IX policy is located on the Access Compliance and Education website. Ms. Alesia Smith is the Clemson University Title IX Coordinator, and the Assistant Vice President of Equity Compliance. Her office is located at 223 Brackett Hall, 864-656-3181 and her email address is alesias@clemson.edu. Remember, email is not a fully secured method of communication and should not be used to discuss Title IX issues.

Emergency Preparation

Clemson University is committed to providing a safe campus environment for students, faculty, staff, and visitors. As members of the community, we encourage you to take the following actions to be better prepared in case of an emergency:

1. Familiarize yourself with all possible exits, safer locations, and other key information on the emergency evacuation maps in this building, and those that you visit regularly.
2. Make a plan for how you would Run, Hide, and Fight in case of an active threat in this building, and those that you visit regularly. For example:
    1. Run – what are all the possible exits in this building, and the routes to them?

2. Hide – what are the potential hiding locations in this room and building that are out of sight of doors and windows, how do you lock the door(s), how would you barricade the door(s) and windows, where do you turn off the lights?

3. Fight – What tools are available in this room and building, should you have to fight?

3. Ensure you are signed up for emergency alerts. Alerts are only sent when there is a potential threat to safety, a major disruption to campus services, and once-monthly tests.

4. Download the Rave Guardian app to your phone. (https://www.clemson.edu/cusafety/cupd/rave-guardian/)

5. Learn what you can do to prepare yourself for the hazards that affect our locations. (http://www.clemson.edu/cusafety/EmergencyManagement/)

Voting Fall 2024

U.S. local elections are facilitated through state and county municipalities. Students attending college may register to vote at their local campus addresses or choose to remain registered or register at their permanent or home address. The nonpartisan ClemsonVotes coalition has information on voter registration, acquiring absentee ballots, and developing a voting plan.

Voter registration differs by states but the registration deadlines in South Carolina are no fewer than 30 days prior to an election. State-by-state voter registration is available here. In South Carolina, the national election is on November 5th, 2024, and this is a university holiday, allowing students faculty and staff to participate in voting.

Privacy and Accessibility (VPAT) statements for the tools used in this course

Canvas: Voluntary Product Accessibility Template (VPAT); Instructure Product Privacy Policy

Respondus LockDown Browser/Monitor: Respondus Accessibility; Privacy Policy

Kaltura: Privacy Policy; Accessibility Statement

Zoom: VPAT; Privacy Policy

Turnitin: Accessibility Standards Compliance; Privacy and Security

Final Thoughts

The use of phones in this class is outrightly prohibited. If your phone must be on your desk, it must be silent. Your laptops, tablets, and or notepads would suffice. Also, since it is a discussion-based class and we already have a lot to chew on, I do not condone eating, not even gum. Water, coffee or any non-alcoholic beverages are allowed. Class participation covers a fat chunk of your total grades. All readings and discussion posts must be done before class, and students should be ready to talk and dialogue about them. This is college; our conversations may cut across some really uncomfortable discourses. You should be ready to respectfully weigh in on them. Be cautious. Treat everyone with respect. Profanity, assault, homophobia, racism, and transphobia all go against Clemson's policy. Any attempt to flout these regulations may result in suspension and eventual termination.

Please note: You are not just learners, you are graders too. There will be break-out sessions with four students per section where you will work collaboratively to generate ideas about class practices and conduct peer reviews.

Before class, you are required to complete a discussion thread [reading responses] on what part of the day's reading speaks to you and why. I might make references to some or all of them in class, and even discuss them. These reading responses close at the start of class each day and are only available on days you have primary readings.

Date	Topic	Reading Due	Writing/Work Due
Unit One: Landmark Analysis
8/21	Introductions
8/23	What is rhetoric?	What is Rhetoric? A "Choose Your Own Adventure" PrimerLinks to an external site.	Response 1
8/26	Rhetorical analysis	- Try This Introduction and Rhetorical Analysis (79-82) - Skim through this also. - We might begin our analysis with Childish Gambino's "This is America."
8/28	Landmark Analysis; Introduction	- We will begin our analysis with Childish Gambino's "This is America." - Try This (109-119)
8/30	Landmark Analysis, cont'd	- "Waffle House Vistas."	Response 2
9/2	Labor Day—no class
9/4	Finding sources	Try This (109-123)
9/6	Draft Workshop	Forty Acre Rock LMA.docx	Rough Draft Due [Response 3]
9/9	More on Draft Introduction to Annotated Bibliography
9/11	Structure and Argument
9/13	Draft Workshop 2 [Peer Review]		Landmark Analysis Final Draft
9/16	Images and Captions	Try This 140-144	Response 4

9/18	Citations and Revision	TBA
9/20	Transition to Unit 2	Try This Secondary Research 21-29	Landmark Analysis Final
Unit Two: Mapping the Conversation
9/23	Introduce Mapping the Conversation	Try This Sourcework 41-45, 65-66
9/25	Public Conversations	You're Wrong About podcast
9/27	Worknets	Try This 45-53
9/30	Proposal Workshop		Topic Proposal (Response 5)
10/2	Public Conversations, continued	Petersen, "Too Strong: Serena Williams"
10/4	Developing analysis	Try This 57-64
10/7	Conferences—no class		Draft worknet (due at your conference)
10/9	Conferences—no class
10/11	No class—midterm grades posted		Response 6
10/14	Fall Break—no class
10/16	Rubric Creation	Try This 83-85
10/18	Peer Review		Mapping the Conversation Draft
10/21	Revision and Sources	Can a Cat be Evil?Links to an external site.
10/23	Revision, cont'd
10/25	Transition to Unit 3	Try This Rhetorical Forms 155-59	Mapping the Conversation Final
Unit Three: Position Statement and Reflection
10/28	Introduce Position Statement and Reflection	An Introduction to Multimodal Composing
10/30	Visual Arguments	Try This 125-40

11/1	Visual Arguments	NYTimes visual arguments	Topic Proposal (Response 7)
11/4	Other Visual Arguments	Try This 144-54
11/6	Multimodal Arguments	Podcast: The Opioid CrisisLinks to an external site.
11/8	Arguing Across Modes		Response 8
11/11	Tech Week	Try This 162-65
11/13	Tech Week
11/15	Tech Week		Response 9
11/18	Group Workshops		Draft project due
11/20	Group Workshops
11/22	Group Workshops
11/25	Revision		Response 10
11/27-29	Thanksgiving—no class
12/2	Presentations
12/4	Presentations
12/6	Reflection and Transfer	"I Passed First Year Writing: What Now?": Adapting Strategies from First-Year Writing in the Disciplines Links to an external site.
12/9-13	Finals Week—Position Statement and Reflection Due insert date and time		